

Dear Commissioner Venney,

4-14-99

I am deeply disturbed that some of the food I buy is not clearly labeled that it, the food, has been genetically altered.

As an American living in a republic and a democratic society it is my right and your responsibility to be sure I know what I am buying; my good health is a precious gift. I do not want to eat food products that have been genetically altered.

I support the FDA being sure all genetically foods are clearly labeled so the consumer can decide to buy it or not.
Sincerely, Mario J. Kling, 8800 N.E. Ohmanki
